Can the State Take a Prisoner from the City Authorities Before he has Satisfied his Condemnation

-Among the attractions at the The- A Doctrine that would Make Memphis a City of Refuge for Vagrants, Vagabonds, Onteasis and Criminals.

EDITORS APPEAL-The public has been notified, by a published order of the chief of police to the police force, that by order of the mayor, the police skall not deliver a person who has been arrested by them on a charge of violating an ordinance of the city, to a sheriff of constable who has a warrant for the arrest of the same person on a charge of rime, etc., under the laws of the Etate. It is understood that the position taken by the mayor is that the arrest by a policeman not only gives to the recorder of the city exclusive jurisdiction over the party arrested for a violation of ordinances, but also of the State laws.
And further, that the fine imposed for ff-nses against the city laws must be satisfied before the S at officer can take the prisoner under a warrant sworn out before a justice of the peace. If this position be true, why should it not hold good agains: a capius issued from the criminal court based upon an indictment for crime? In the petition is true. Now, I sak, could any honest man make oath to such a petition, and make proof that he such a petition, and make proof that he is illegally held, when the proceedings under the city ordinances were regular? When the governor of another State makes a requisition upon the governor of Tennessee for a person charged with crime in that other State, the governor of Tennessee will direct that the man be delivered up to the agent sent from the other State to receive him unless the same person is in the cus ody of the law here | Nettings. charged with crime committed against the laws of Tennessee. Then, in that event, the governor of Tennessee will not deliver him up. It must be upon this idea that the city authorities hold tion of this city is the creation of the legislature of the State of Tennessee, and it can nowhere be shown that the corporation has higher and paramount authority over the State which created it. If this new doctrine was to obtain, would make Memphis a city of refuge to which every villain who commits a crime might flee, and get himself arrested for a small offense under the ordinances of the city, and bids his time for final escape while working out his term on the chairingang. serving their terms on the chain-gang prisoners are kept at night in the station-house, where it is not difficult for a bold man, who knows that other punishment awaits him, to make his escape. The recorder is, ex officio, a justice of the peace. Then he, so far as offenses against the State are concerned, can do nothing more than a justice of the peace can do. What is the law of the Sate which governs justices of the peace in regard to arrests for crime? Section 5020, of the code, provides that information under oath must first be made before a justice of the peace, and the information or examination must be reduced to writing and signed by the person making the oath. Section 5021 provides what the written information shall contain in order to justify the jus-tice of the peace in issuing a warrant. Section 5022 is as follows: "If the mugistrate is satisfied therefrom (the sworn statement) that the offense complained of has been committed, and here is reasonable ground to believe the defendant is guilty thereof, he shall issue a warrant of arrest."

Look now at the form of warrant prescribed by the State law for the justice of the peace to follow. It is found in section 5025 of the code, and is directed to any lawful officer of the State, and having proved their efficiency by a test commands him "in the name of the State, forthwith to arrest the defendant and bring him before me, or some other magistrate of said county, to answer the charge." When a person is brought before the recorder on a charge of violating a city ordinance, and the proof developes the fact that the State law has quil repose. G. W JONES & CO. been violated, he cannot under the laws of the Sate try him at a court of inquiry as ex officio justice of the peace, until, in common parlance, a warrant has been sworn out against the person. Then it is the recorder's duty to issue a warrant of arrest for the offerse ommitted against the State law. He hands the warrant to a constable or the sheriff to be executed If the man ble cannot execute the warrant because can see him through the bars of the stationhouse prison, and he can talk to him and tell him he has the warrant, but he cannot obey the command of the warrant and arrest the man. It is the case over again where the sheriff had a capias for a man and found him in the mouth of a narrow cave, with a loaded double-barrel shot-gun in his hand and would not surrender, but told the officer to stand off or he would shoot. The sheriff could not take him without justify, and hee wid not truthfully make a return that the defendant could not be found in his county. So, upon the suggestion of the defendant, he made return that the defendant was "seeable When the recorder, as ex officio justice of the peace, or any regular justice of the peace, issues a warrant and places it in the hands of an officer, commanding him to bring the prisoner before him or some other justice of the peace, the recorder, or justice of the peace who issues the warrant, has no longer any control over that warrant until it is returned before him.
